INSPECTION PERIOD ON PASSENGER CARS BEGINS IN VIRGINIA

Richmond, Oct. 5.- Captain R. B. King, State Police Safety Officer and Assistant Administrator of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee, has announced the dates for the fall period for the inspection of motor vehicles as October 1 through November 15 for passenger cars and the entire month of December for trucks, including passenger buses.

"We have approximately 2,000 official stations conveniently distributed throughout the state and manned by 9,000 certified mechanics," he said, "and these can accomodate all car owners with a minimum of inconvenience if they will not wait until the last minute to present their cars for inspection."

This action, he continued, invariably causes congestion and delay at the inspection stations since the number of cars is far in excess of normal and time is running out. He added that there positively could not be an extension of the deadlines of midnight November 15 and December 31.

In this connection, Captain King noted that often there appears a bona fide reason why a motorist could not present his car in time, as a prolonged illness, and the question arises as to how the vehicle is to be taken to an official inspection station without the current sticker. In these cases, he said, the motorist must proceed at his own risk as to whether the excuse will be accepted.

In closing, Captain King pointed out that the State Police will not condone any abuses of inspection regulations among official stations and stated any such treatment received should be reported. However, he was emphatic in stating the complainant must be prepared to stand behind his charges.

The new sticker will be orange in color and the reverse will bear a message calling attention to the forthcoming national "S.T." or "Safe Driving Day," which will take place December 1 of this year.

JAYCEES REPORT ON LIGHT BULB SALE

The members of the Appomattox County Junior Chamber of Commerce take this means of expressing their appreciation to the citizens of this county for their help in making their special sale of light bulbs this week a success.

Nearly 2,000 bulbs were sold.

The Jaycees state: "We realize that during this operation, some mistakes were made in the assortment of bulbs in each package, and that some of the bulbs may be bad or broken. If this is the case, we would appreciate it if the people who are not satisfied in every way would contact some member of the Jaycees, so that we might make a satisfactory adjustment. This was our first big project and are well pleased with the results and the cooperation we received. There may have been some houses overlooked on Monday night and still others may not have been at home when we called. Any one who was not approached can have bulbs delivered to their house by calling Gene Paulette at the Farmers National Bank or contacting Billy Conner or John Hall at the post office."

...arm Fire Safety ...ional Fire Protection As...sociation, sponsor of Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 9-15) in cooperation with U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Virginia Agriculture Extension Service, offers suggestions on safe clothing for children. They report according to hospital records, the clothes your children wear may be a fire hazard, since they report fire inviting garments are the chief cause of children being severely burned or killed by fire.

They warn that once a child's clothing ignites, the child in a panic is likely to run and only make things worse. Children should be taught at an early age not to run when this happens, but to immediately roll up in a rug, coat or blanket or simply to fall down on the ground and roll around if no covering is available.

Clothing fires often result from a child playing with matches or because of a child getting too close to an open fire place, wood and coal heaters, and gas, wood or kerosene stoves.

In addition to teaching children the right thing to do in such an emergency, the NFPA and USDA urge parents to protect children by buying clothing that is not too flimsy and readily ignited. And by all means take steps to prevent any possible contact with fire. Fireplaces should have fireguards; matches, lighters, gasoline and kerosene should be kept far out of reach; trash fires should never be left unattended, and sternly enforce the rule of staying safely away from stoves, heaters and furnaces.

Uncooked Tomato Relish

How to use the last tomatoes on the vine before frost ruins them is of concern to many homemakers at this season of the year. One quick and easy way to use a few tomatoes is in uncooked relish. Such a product adds color and flavor to meals. Because it is uncooked, it must be kept in the refrigerator.

Here's a U. S. Department of Agriculture recipe that makes about 4 pints of relish. Ingredients: 2 quarts chopped peeled tomatoes; 1 cup chopped celery; 3-4 cup chopped green pepper; 2 teaspoons salt; 3 tablespoons sugar; 1 tablespoon of mustard seed; 1-4 teaspoon each ground nutmeg, cinnamon and cloves and 1 cup of vinegar. To make: mix all ingredients together thoroughly. Pour in clean jars and cover. In the refrigerator or other closed place, this relish keeps two or three weeks.

COUNTY AGENT SAYS APPOMATTOX FARMS NEED WATER UNDER PRESSURE

Water under pressure is essential for efficient farm production, according to Jim Smith, County Agent. He reported, however, that nearly 72% of the farms in Appomattox County are still without this great labor-saver and convenient service.

"On the farm running water is a boost to production," he stated. "For instance, tests have shown that up to 15% more milk has been produced where automatic drinking cups have been used in dairies. Increases up to 50% in vegetable production where gardens can be watered have been noted, and more and larger eggs have been produced where automatic poultry drinking devices have been used."

"The cost for electricity," Mr. Smith added, "for pumping water to all farm operations have averaged little more than one dollar per month. Even if we eliminate the productive aspects of this service, the saving in labor to a housewife is amazing. Without running water the average farm family spends about 240 hours a year carrying 20-30 tons of water for kitchen use only. At the minimum of seventy-five cents per hour this would come to eighteen dollars, or nearly six dollars more per year than it costs to pump all farm water under pressure automatically."

Mr. Smith firmly believes that pressure water systems are farmers' most valuable asset. "Better production adds up to the joy of better living on the farm," he concluded.
